

In the 21st century, environmental protection is more important than economic prosperity.